Professional Summary

Studio founder, creative director, and "full stack" game developer with over 25 years of experience shipping titles for EA, Snowblind Studios, Zipper Interactive, and THQ. After founding Signal Studios and leading the Toy Soldiers franchise to 2 D.I.C.E. nominations and millions in sales, currently focused on indie game development, creating a historical RPG concerning the American Indian Wars. Proven track record of raising $27M in funding and scaling studios from 3 to 55+ employees. Specializes in bridging the gap between old-school game development techniques and modern technologies to build massive, authentic games without large teams or technological bloat. Expertise spans the entire development lifecycle—from hands-on art and design to high-level budgeting, publisher relations (Microsoft, Ubisoft, GungHo), and team leadership.
